

Sarah A. Jones
USA Citizen
7335 South Damen
Chicago, Illinois 60636

SPECIFICATION

The patent is for a loaf of bread, which will contain bread combinations, i.e. half white, half wheat, half rye, half wheat, etc. The packaging will be unique in that it will allow for access at either end. There will be a thin divider between the two bread types.

The specifics of the packaging include twist ties at both ends and the preferred material for packaging is plastic. The bread will be available in various weights.

TITLE OF INVENTION

2 AND ONE, INC.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE INVENTION

In response to the rising ecological concerns for the preservation of the earth, this packaging will enable consumers to buy one single loaf of bread as opposed to two or more loaves of bread. Many families wrestle with the decision of which type of bread to buy, and many simply cannot afford to buy two kinds of bread. Therefore, my invention will cut down on expenses and at the same time provide the opportunity for variety.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF THE INVENTION

The materials needed are already in existence; I am simply rearranging the contents and supplying easy access.